Between Us

It seems that there is no end to the wedding bells ringing in our young set this summer. Tonight finds Gladys Thayer having a beautiful church wedding, and on the calendar for another pretty wedding this summer is certainly one of the prettiest young girls who has been teaching in another town for the past few years. The groom is from the town she has taught in, and she is an only daughter with three brothers, two of whom are in the service. Like her mother, she has all the graciousness and charm that comes from her grandfather and mother, who are among our most prominent families. Since the announcement hasn't come out, we will let you watch the papers for her name—Dorothy Ann Kennedy has had her reservation in for several weeks to attend the Methodist youth conference at Wesleyan, and since Dorothy Ann is planning to go to Wesleyan when she finishes school, she is doubly anxious to go. But word came back that they were having more applications than they had room, so she gave up the idea. But at the last minute and told one who dropped out and she was to go. From all reports they had a grand time and incidentally she did a little looking about the college while she was there. Leaving on the same day was a group of young people going to Laura Walker Camp, from the Presbyterian church, for a week, and they had quite a time. The Boy Scouts are making final plans to leave soon for camp down on the Wilmington river. We have quite a group of boys here who attend each year, and they always look forward to going—Quite a bit of stir was going on over a high school senior who is planning to leave her appearance. Always the Critterers are here before school closes, but this year it is a little late publication, and the seniors deserve much credit for putting out such a good book. The world is small after all. Roberta Mallard went out to Louisiana to visit Lawrence while he was in camp out there. Not knowing where to look for board, she selected a very attractive place and found a room (although she had been warned there wouldn't be one found in town). After registering, the landlady told her they had a young lady in one of the rooms from a Georgia town. Imagine her surprise when she ran into Henrietta Tillman Blue, who has been out there some time with her husband. Since their husbands were transferred while they were there, they came back together—Jean and Bill Kennedy had only had their car a week in California when Bill was transferred to New York City, so Jean and Bobby came driving back. But guess all these things go along with war—Will see you.

AROUND TOWN.

T.E.T. ENTERTAINED
Dekle Banks and Arnold Anderson were hosts to several members of the T. E. T. club Tuesday evening. The group went to Akins pond for swimming, then enjoying a picnic supper at the Banks home near town. Mrs. Arnold Anderson assisted Mrs. Banks. Others attending were Inman Foy Jr., Worth McDougald, John Olliff Groover, John Ford Mays, Buddy Barnes, Belton Braswell, Parrish Blitch and Lowell Atkins.

BARNES' VISITORS

Cpl. and Mrs. Davis Barnes have returned to Ft. Eustis, Va., after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Remer Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Parrish, of Fernandina, Fla., also visited Mr. and Mrs. Barnes this week.

MANY LOVELY PARTIES FOR MISS THAYER

Many lovely parties were given this week in honor of Miss Gladys Thayer, popular bride-elect, whose marriage will be an interesting event taking place this summer. Tonight finds Gladys Thayer having a beautiful church wedding, and on the calendar for another pretty wedding this summer is certainly one of the prettiest young girls who has been teaching in another town for the past few years. ### THIRTY YEARS AGO

From Bulloch Times, June 26, 1913
Ripe watermelons began arriving on the local market this week; still small; prices from 20 to 30 cents.
Keev Davis and Tom Outland left Tuesday for Trilby, Fla., to be engaged in orange packing during the next season.

Sunday excursion to Daufuskie island, leaving over S. & S. railroad this morning, carried several hundred from Statesboro.

Dewey Hagin was charged with some infraction of the city laws; Policeman A. T. Peak attempted to arrest him, and a scuffle ensued; Peak was thrown out of his wagon, then escaped.

Announcement is made of a farmers' conference to be held under the auspices of the State College of Agriculture on Monday, June 30th, at Dik, Ga.; intended to discuss the problem of raising cotton and other crops. J. W. Williams, president of Bulloch County Farmers Institute organization. (Know where Dink is?)

At public meeting held in court house Saturday afternoon steps were taken to vigorously oppose the creation of any new counties from territory affecting Bulloch county. A. M. Deal, J. E. Anderson, J. A. Brannen and Dr. E. S. L. Miller were named committee to go to Atlanta.

FORTY YEARS AGO
From Statesboro News, June 23, 1903
W. G. T. Woodrum, living a few miles from town, brought in the first open cotton bloom Saturday; his crop must be pretty good.

Hall storm visited Bulloch county last Wednesday, the most disastrous in the memory of the oldest citizen; hail fell for an hour in some places; pigs and chickens were killed in several places.

J. H. Baleman published card denying he was an aspirant for the position of postmaster at Metter; "there are four candidates for the vacancy a majority of our citizens are for Perry Routledge."

Tomorrow is the Sunday school celebration at Brooklet; addresses will be delivered by Rev. Alex Bealer and Rev. Anthony; S. & S. will provide five or six coaches to accommodate those who wish to go from here.

NEED IS GREAT FOR FARM LABOR HERE

Several Hundred Laborers Wanted To Harvest Crops During Next Three Months

County Agent Byron Dyer states that Bulloch county farmers will need the assistance of several hundred additional workers during July, August and September to help gather their tobacco, cotton and peanut crops.

In order to be of more assistance to these farmers, an Emergency Farm Labor Office has been established in the county agent's office for the purpose of recruiting farm workers and placing these workers with the farmers who need help.

Mr. Dyer states that the farmers are putting forth great efforts to produce these crops and says that it is the duty of every citizen of Bulloch county to do his part to see that these farmers have enough help to gather these crops which they are producing.

The Farm Labor Office is now open for the purpose of taking the applications of these people who will be available for farm work this fall as well as applications from those who will be coming to the county from other parts of the state.

All white and colored men, women, boys and girls who are not employed full time are urged to register immediately at the county agent's office for farm work during harvest season. The Emergency Farm Labor Office will then see that all labor thus recruited is placed to the best advantage of everyone concerned.

Mr. Dyer states that in all cases the prevailing farm wage will be paid to all workers recruited.

SHERIFF IS FIRST MARKET MELONS

Farm Overseer Tyson Sets Market Going With First Truckload Saturday Morning

First ripe home-grown watermelons to reach the local market, so far as we have been able to learn, were those brought in last Saturday morning by Sheriff Mallard's farm near Porterdale, which has been supervised, Hoke Tyson, in charge of the load.

The report we are about to make is entirely on faith. It has been a fixed policy of this reporter in past years to never report any first watermelons until the complete sample had been delivered in person at the editor's desk. This truckload now in question, however, got by without even a faint scent of a watermelon, but testimony of credible witnesses seems to establish beyond question that the melons arrived—135 of them, all fully ripe, though not large—and that they sold instantly in one lot at 30 cents each.

Now, if you do your own figuring, you will see that the load brought $40.50 at wholesale. With prices like these prevailing, we can sort of overlook usual requirements of being shown. And, besides Sheriff Mallard offered what he believed was a perfect alibi—said if he had brought the editor one, every other friend of his would have resented this preference, so he thought the best thing was to sell the whole load.

And this brings us to assent that Sheriff Mallard has demonstrated his wisdom in selling as well as in growing watermelons. As a farmer, his plan is to employ a good foreman, and then turn the matter over to him. That is how Sheriff Mallard managed to grow these choice early melons. Hoke Tyson knows how to from long experience. Not only does he grow early melons, but he brought along as evidence of an approaching cotton crop a boll as large as a medium-sized marble, which was the first boll we have seen.

Considering everything, it is apparent that there are going to be some good crops this year on the Mallard farm.

SINGING CONVENTION AT WESTSIDE SCHOOL
We will hold our singing convention at West Side school Sunday, June 27th. Everyone is asked to attend. We will have the Augusta Quartette, with many other good singers. A basket lunch will be served for the singers.

RUFUS ANDERSON, Pres.
W. L. CASON, Secretary.

Union Service To Welcome New Pastor

The churches of this city will hold a union service in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday night, June 27th, at 8:30, to welcome the new pastor, Rev. Basil V. Hicks. Rev. L. E. Williams, pastor of the Methodist church; Rev. R. D. Hodges, pastor of the Missionary Baptist church, and Elder V. F. Agan, pastor of the Primitive Baptist church, will be present to extend their welcome. Dr. R. J. Kennedy, an elder in the Presbyterian church, will preside at the service and present Mr. Hicks to the visiting audience. Mr. Hicks will preach the sermon, subject "God's Love in Action." The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

While we are earnestly discussing the need of a more rugged individualism among people of this day—that is, a capacity to care for themselves creditably when emergency arises—we are impressed that it might not be amiss to carry the point even down to the fowl yard in the average city home.

While the young human mothers have eased in large measure from the responsibilities of family life through a shunting of their youngsters to the kindergartens and to the various child-care activities, out in the hen yard the mothers there have softened up to the point that even house cats are devouring their offerings in broods. We mentioned last week in this column how a bunch of cats and a long-haired dog had fallen upon a flock of eighteen young chickens in our own back yard and had let up in the depredations with only one small aside bidding following its mother. As we sum up the last week in this matter, we are convinced that all this evil is attributable to a decadence of that element in mother hens which might well be classed as rugged individualism. And as we recall the days of the long ago, hens fought for their young—and made an alarm when evil threatened. We have known little pink-and-white hens to grab a hawk in her clutches and hold fast till the woman of the house came with a broom and beat out the hawk's brains. That's the kind of hen mothers—and human mothers, too—we need this day and time.

Old Grandmother Kilgore made a specialty of raising hens which fought for their brood. They didn't even wait for the young chickens to get out in the open. One of Grandmother's hens was so vigilant that, when she began setting upon her eggs, she would sit on them, and if the egg hatched she'd meet you half way to the gate when you visited at Grandmother's home. She took family life seriously, as if it were the final aim of living. She'd lay twelve or fifteen eggs and get on the job of hatching out what she had laid. If somebody had stolen the eggs out of her, she said that, that didn't fool her; she felt impressed that she had arrived at the setting period, and she went on the job. Grandmother permitted her hens to set as regularly as they lay, and she always had a yardful of eating-size chickens. The memory makes out moist water. That condition was no mere accident; it was the result of character among the hens of her flock. They all had the same characteristic loyalty to home defense. Not all the long-tailed cats in Calcutta nor all the long-haired pompanos in Pompana could frighten her from the defense of her brood when they had arrived. That.

DAIRY PRODUCTS RANK AT VERY TOP
Are Rated As Among Most Important Items In World Food Needs

Dairy products have become one of the most important items in the "Food for Freedom" program. According to Josh T. Nesmith, secretary-treasurer of the Statesboro Production Credit Association, at the beginning of the year the nation had in prospect a production of 122 billion pounds of milk. This was estimated to be seven billion pounds short of the amount we should have to meet our civilian, military and lend-lease needs. There has been some shifting of dairy herds because of the draft and labor shortage, and unfortunately in the process some dairy cows have gone to slaughter. The War Food Administration has been urging farmers to keep their dairy herds, to aid in the situation by increasing their milk production. The response has been good, but the world still needs more milk.

The nation's milk supply usually reaches its peak about the middle of June, when cows are on full pasture. Farmers should recognize this situation and make plans to combat the usual slump by putting into practice the 8-point program suggested by the War Food Administration and the Dairy Industry Committee, which is as follows:

Provide abundant pastures; grow temporary pasture if necessary.
Provide plenty of good hay—at least 400 to 500 pounds per cow.
Provide abundant silage—at least 2½ tons per cow. Trench silos may be used.

Condition cows for freshening. Eight weeks rest and have cows in good flesh at calving time.
Feed plenty of good roughage—it's cheap and a natural food for cows.
Feed balanced ration, adjust grain ration to production and feed one pound to each 2 to 4 pounds of milk produced.

Feed to avoid summer slump—give extra feed, such as temporary pasture, hay, grain and silage.
Raise calves with less milk and send more milk to market.

"The Statesboro Production Credit Association is solidly behind this drive to meet the milk requirements of the nation and is ready to back it up with the service of the entire organization," Mr. Nesmith said. "The Statesboro Production Credit Association has already this year made loans for dairying purposes. Credit is abundant for this purpose and, serving farmers will have no difficulty in obtaining the financial assistance necessary to carry out the War Food Administration 8-point dairy program."

WAS THIS YOU?
At the postoffice Wednesday morning you were wearing a white flowered dress with blue background; white shoes and black bag. Your eyes and hair are dark, and you are not over-stout. You are employed at an up-town office at work which is not your regular occupation. You are a professional woman.

If the lady described will call at the Times office she will receive two tickets to the picture, "Hello, Frisco, Hello," showing today and Friday at the Georgia Theatre. Watch next week for new clue. The lady described last week was Mrs. Sidney. She attended the show Thursday evening and phoned later to express her appreciation.

FARMERS TO HEAR TALK ON MOSQUITO
W. S. Hanner Will Speak Before Farm Bureau At Meeting Friday Night

The location of the malaria mosquito in Bulloch county, as well as the other mosquitoes and their habits, will be discussed at the Farm Bureau meeting Friday night, W. S. Hanner, Jr., president, announced.

W. S. Hanner, head of the division of exact science at Georgia Teachers College, will lead the discussion. Mr. Hanner has spent several months working with health officials in locating the malaria mosquito in the county and identifying the many other mosquitoes found here. His talk on the subject is one everyone should hear that is interested in improving the malaria condition here.

Mr. Smith stated that the meeting would be held at 9 p. m., in the court house, instead of the usual time. Until the days get shorter, he felt that 9 p. m. would be most satisfactory to all members.

"Yanks Invade North Africa," "Little Black Sambo," and a new motion picture will be shown at this meeting.

SHOULD HAVE HENS TO DEFEND FLOCKS

Rugged Individualism In Hen House is Quality Now Most Urgently Needed

While we are earnestly discussing the need of a more rugged individualism among people of this day—that is, a capacity to care for themselves creditably when emergency arises—we are impressed that it might not be amiss to carry the point even down to the fowl yard in the average city home.

While the young human mothers have eased in large measure from the responsibilities of family life through a shunting of their youngsters to the kindergartens and to the various child-care activities, out in the hen yard the mothers there have softened up to the point that even house cats are devouring their offerings in broods. As we sum up the last week in this matter, we are convinced that all this evil is attributable to a decadence of that element in mother hens which might well be classed as rugged individualism. And as we recall the days of the long ago, hens fought for their young—and made an alarm when evil threatened. We have known little pink-and-white hens to grab a hawk in her clutches and hold fast till the woman of the house came with a broom and beat out the hawk's brains. That's the kind of hen mothers—and human mothers, too—we need this day and time.

Old Grandmother Kilgore made a specialty of raising hens which fought for their brood. They didn't even wait for the young chickens to get out in the open. Not all the long-tailed cats in Calcutta nor all the long-haired pompanos in Pompana could frighten her from the defense of her brood when they had arrived. That.

Robert J. Taylor, state F.O. specialist, from Athens, commented favorably on steady progress that is being demonstrated in Bulloch county in connection with the Farm Ownership program. Miss Nona Hodges, of Statesboro, gave two selections on her xylophone. Miss Jewell Hardy, associate state home management supervisor, from Athens, expressed the growing need for just such opportunities that have been given to non-home ownership families in this area and other areas of the southland. She called attention to the outstanding educational work that is evident in the children from Farm Ownership programs, which step along with other progressive steps is due worthy consideration. J. D. Whiteside, district FSA supervisor, and Mrs. Lillian Bird, district home management supervisor, both of Swainsboro, expressed their pleasure for having the opportunity to attend the picnic. The congregation then sang "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The main speaker was Joe G. Woodruff, chief of Farm Ownership Section, of Montgomery, Ala. He gave a most instructive talk on the origin and the furtherance of the Farm Ownership program in region number five, which includes Alabama, Bulloch, Georgia and South Carolina. Bulloch county was compared with other outstanding counties in the region. He challenged this group of farmers to have a more progressive record this year, since prices are to be more favorable than they have been in many years.

Elder H. B. Kennedy gave the benediction, and the group was dismissed to spread the picnic lunch out on tables. Everyone enjoyed the dinner and the fellowship one with another.

MRS. BARNEY AVERITT WILL LIST YOUR ROOMS

For the purpose of rendering a double service, to those who have rooms for rent and those who are seeking rooms, Mrs. J. Barney Averitt has agreed to keep a register of available rooms to be made known to inquirers. Every person who has a room for rent is requested to communicate that fact to Mrs. Averitt, whose office phone is 103.

TENANT PURCHASE FAMILIES MEET

All-Day Picnic Thursday At Warnock School With Forty-Six in Attendance

On Thursday of last week, forty-six Farm Ownership families, formerly known as Tenant-Purchase families, met at Warnock School and Mid-ground church yard near Statesboro for an all-day picnic.

Among others present were representatives of the Extension Service, A.A.A. Soil Conservation, Sea Island Bank, Bulloch County Bank, health department, Central of Georgia railroad, and other influential men and women of Bulloch county. The program for the day consisted of a song, "Come Thou Almighty King," led by Henry B. Bailey, one of the Farm Ownership farmers. Elder R. H. Kennedy read a Scripture lesson, after which he led the group in prayer. All visitors were then introduced.

Robert J. Taylor, state F.O. specialist, from Athens, commented favorably on steady progress that is being demonstrated in Bulloch county in connection with the Farm Ownership program. Miss Nona Hodges, of Statesboro, gave two selections on her xylophone. Miss Jewell Hardy, associate state home management supervisor, from Athens, expressed the growing need for just such opportunities that have been given to non-home ownership families in this area and other areas of the southland. She called attention to the outstanding educational work that is evident in the children from Farm Ownership programs, which step along with other progressive steps is due worthy consideration. J. D. Whiteside, district FSA supervisor, and Mrs. Lillian Bird, district home management supervisor, both of Swainsboro, expressed their pleasure for having the opportunity to attend the picnic. The congregation then sang "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The main speaker was Joe G. Woodruff, chief of Farm Ownership Section, of Montgomery, Ala. He gave a most instructive talk on the origin and the furtherance of the Farm Ownership program in region number five, which includes Alabama, Bulloch, Georgia and South Carolina. Bulloch county was compared with other outstanding counties in the region. He challenged this group of farmers to have a more progressive record this year, since prices are to be more favorable than they have been in many years.

Elder H. B. Kennedy gave the benediction, and the group was dismissed to spread the picnic lunch out on tables. Everyone enjoyed the dinner and the fellowship one with another.

Heavy Bombardments

A recent summary issued by the War Department showed that of eighteen bombardment missions by U. S. planes against targets within Germany, eleven have been made since May 14.

Engaged only in daylight, high-altitude, precision attacks against enemy industrial centers, naval bases and war plants, the USAAF based in England flew approximately 1,600 sorties with four-engine bombers against German targets.

The eighteen forays are shown to have been carried out at a cost of 100 American planes, while 571 German planes were shot down, 187 probably destroyed, and 231 damaged in aerial combat.

The first seven attacks by American bombers against Germany were made in the period of January 27, 1943, through April 17, 1943. United States losses for these missions totaled forty planes, while 224 German planes were shot down, 78 probably destroyed and 107 damaged. In the eight days of May 14 through May 21, seven more attacks were made, with American losses totaling 32 planes and German losses 243 shot down, sixty-nine probably destroyed and 116 damaged. Attacks against Wilhelmshaven, Cuxhaven, Bremen and Kiel cost thirty-four American planes, with German losses placed initially at 104 planes destroyed, forty probably destroyed and thirty-eight damaged.

The Demonstration Club was held at the home of Mrs. R. T. Simmons Wednesday afternoon with Mesdames Robert Simmons and Fred Lee as joint hostesses. The rooms in which the guests were entertained were decorated with crepe myrtle and California peach. After an hour of music, Miss Spears demonstrated kraut-ing, after which Red Cross garments which had been completed were turned in. Dainty refreshments were served.

The Denmark cannery is now in operation and regular canning days will be Tuesday and Friday until further notice. It is requested that you bring unprepared vegetables before 5 o'clock and prepared vegetables before five o'clock.

age 5 years, 6 months, who died suddenly on May 30, 1943.

Today recalls sad memories of a loved one gone to rest: Are the ones who loved you best. Those days we once enjoyed.

When we were here together, But, oh, how changed it all is now. Since you have gone forever.

Our hearts still ache with sadness; Our eyes shed many tears; God only knows how we miss you.

Since you are gone, my dear, A precious one from us has gone; A voice we loved is still—

A place is vacant in our home That never can be filled.

DATES FOR OPERATION
REGISTER CANNERY

The Register canning plant will operate Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week, beginning Monday, June 27th. Those who have already used the plant this season are asked to continue to do their canning on Tuesday and Friday. Those who have not used the plant yet are asked to do their canning, if possible, on Monday and Tuesday.

Those in charge expect this arrangement to help the crowded condition found in most plants in the rush seasons.

MODERN METHODS KILL MOSQUITOES

System Used On The
Battlefronts May Later
Come Into Home Use

Atlanta, June 21.—"Health bombs" are knocking out the insect pests while TNT does the job for the two-legged variety of enemy of the American soldier on fighting fronts around the world, it was disclosed at headquarters of the Fourth Service command.

This "new weapon" in the battle against mosquitoes, flies and other insects is an insecticide that is a highly efficient, non-toxic and non-inflammable liquid made from fennel, sesame oil and pyrethrum. It comes in pressure containers each weighing about a pound. A spray outlet is controlled by the user.

The "bombs" can be used in tents and barracks wherever troops are stationed in the tropics or in the cabin of airplanes, military or civilian, taking off from a tropical base.

American fighting men lying in front line foxholes, bothered by mosquitoes and Japs, can release an insecticide "bomb" for a few rounds, rid themselves of mosquitoes and give their full attention to the Nips.

As the "bomb" is released it forms a fine mist which remains suspended and is fatal to any insect which comes in contact with it. In twelve to fourteen minutes one of these "health bombs" will fumigate 150,000 cubic feet of space, equivalent to the space of 240 army

To Parents Right Here

IN THIS PAPER last week there was an extended quotation from a statement written by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, addressed to the parents and adults generally of the United States.

This forceful appeal for a waking up of those who are responsible for the childhood of today and the morals of tomorrow, was not addressed to fathers and mothers in places far removed from you who read these lines. It was written to you personally, and goes as far as to say that you are as responsible as if the man who wrote it had you only in mind.

This awakening appeal was written and being given publicity in the papers throughout the nation ten days or two weeks ago—many days before any incident in our own community had come to light which seemed to make it locally applicable. But it was not written before the beginning of the chain of incidents which have ripened in the case which will stand out in the thinking of those who read the recent story involving the charges against a local girl—a mere child—and a soldier in uniform, who have been recognizably pictured in the warning letter written by Mr. Hoover.

Nothing ever happened suddenly, however much surprised we are sometimes at the things which break before our vision. What was the beginning of the incident which has brought these two young people into the courts to answer a murder charge? Not in recent days, certainly; not even within their individual lives. Back beyond their lives were influences which have led up to break suddenly into the open. Parents, even grandparents, start the conditions which inevitably lead to a capacity to stand in times of peril—or to fall.

Edgar Hoover has preached a sermon when he has warned parents of the responsibility to those whose lives have been entrusted to their care and molding. It is rather late to begin to avert that which is even worse, which is inevitably impending.

Why Pay Anybody?

THERE HAS BEEN before congress in recent weeks a measure sponsored by Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, which provides that the government, in its efforts to encourage the enlarged sale of War Bonds shall expend a sizeable amount with the weekly newspaper in advertising.

The mere fact that the proposal is one calling for legislative enactment has justified a considerable range of comment on the subject, and newspaper men themselves have been asked whether or not the proposed expenditure of cash for government advertising would amount to eventual corruption of the newspapers involved. Oddly enough there are some who oppose the measure as a possible corrupting influence. And this makes us wonder why the line is to be drawn against newspaper advertising. Our information is that high-priced writers are employed in Washington offices to prepare this propaganda; that comparatively mediocre employees are paid high salaries to sit at office desks and work comparatively few hours daily in the preparation of this propaganda for mailing; that government employees are paid comparatively fancy salaries to handle this matter through the mails to delivery, and that every person who touches this matter from its inception to the front door of the printing office is paid in cash. Whether this payment is a corrupting influence upon these individuals, has neither been asked nor answered. Personally the question does not arise in our own mind.

But there is this one question which calls for an answer: Why is it safe and proper to pay every other person through whose brain and hands this matter passes, and then draw the line at the newspaper office. Personally, we hold the theory that any publicity desired by the government which is worth paying anybody to disseminate, is worth paying the printer to carry at last to its final destination. It costs as much to set this matter in type and run off the press, as it costs to have it typed in a cozy Washington office.

Dorothy Dodged Issue

IN RECENT YEARS we have come more and more to turn toward Dorothy Dix when there come into our life any serious problems of "mind, matters, morals or marriage." Personally we have never recognized any benefit that has come to us from these occasional studies of her hints, but at least we do occasionally find ourselves amused. And when we find there is within her a vast preponderance of that human nature which is so often observed in other women of whom we take note. For instance, we early found that when you ask a woman a direct question which could be answered in one "yes" or "no," you are lucky if you don't find her coming back with a series of unrelated questions which make you forget what it was you started out inquiring about. Now, understand, we don't say all women are that way. Just all the women we know are.

So the other day we casually noticed that "Dot and Mabel" had confided to Dorothy that they both had married boys younger than they—one three years and the other four years—both boys in their teens. The girls had come, they said, to realize that the boys were not as mature as they had believed, and they wanted Dorothy to tell them what to do.

Now, as we read to learn what this wise woman would advise, we followed her through a maze of half a column of vague words in which she had set forth that "boys up to the time they are well in their twenties, need a mother and not a wife," which reasoning was followed by the philosophy that "cradle-snatching is a risky business for women," and then she wound up with the informative declaration that "there is no telling what a husband will develop into, so the safest bet is to marry a man who has already grown up instead of taking a child to rear." And that was as far as Dorothy went. She didn't tell "Dot and Mabel" what to do with the situation they already had in hand.

We recalled that recently one of our friends ran across two words in his dictionary, "treacherous" and "verbose." He studied their significance and found they were defined as "using more words than are necessary or useful." He told us he knew several men who fitted that description. These words sort of apply to Dorothy, but the word "verbose" fits her more nearly like a glove.

was rugged character from a long line of ancestry.

Then came a softer age—when women began to regulate the habits of hens; they sought to dictate when and how and why hens should become mothers. Our own mother often shut hens under dark barrels for weeks at a time to break their setting spirit; she dipped their heads in water; tore out their nests bodily. It was a long hard fight, but hens gradually lost their determination, and incubators came along and the hen was converted into an egg laying machine. When a modern hen starts to lay, she has no sense of time or fitness; some of them have been known to lay every day in the year, it is recorded. Modern hens, they tell us, don't even consult with their lords and masters of the fowl yard about family affairs, but just go on laying.

And there is no wonder cats and dogs have come in and taken possession of the chicken yard. We never saw an incubator fly into a spasm in defense of its young when a cat or a dog or a hawk came prowling. What we need is more vigor on the part of the hens. We'd give away our last year's straw hat to hear hen crow. Grandmother Kilgore's hens used to crow!

VISITOR FROM ATLANTA

Mrs. H. V. Franklin, of Register, is confined to her bed with sciatic rheumatism. She was visited for two days this week by her daughter, Miss Rebecca Franklin, of Atlanta.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Elloway Forbes announced the birth of a daughter on Friday, June 18. She has been named Sandra Lynn. Mrs. Forbes was before her marriage Miss Effie Lynn Waters, of Statesboro.

VISITORS FROM DENVER

VISITING HOT SPRINGS

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Parker left last Friday for Hot Springs, where they will spend a couple of weeks. They went in their car and drove by way of Perry, where they visited their daughter, Mrs. Bing Brown.

Surgical Dressing Notes

This is just a reminder to the women of Bulloch county that surgical dressings rooms are still open. We are still expecting many of the women who have said they would come up and work to do so. It is very warm in the rooms, especially in the afternoons. However it is no warmer than it is for the boys who are in Africa fighting, or any warmer than it is on the streets of our town or in cars in front of the drug stores. Many women are coming who haven't any servants, who have families, and all the other things that women who don't come, have to do. The work is not hard, so won't come of you plan your home duties so that you can spend a day a week at the Red Cross rooms?

The supervisors have been most faithful, but they are discouraged to keep going day after day, leaving things they much prefer doing, and having no workers up there. The hours are the same in the morning—every morning from 10 to 11. We have decided for the sake of the supervisors to open the rooms at 4 in the afternoon instead of 3. They will be open every afternoon except Monday. We still have the rooms open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7:30 until 10:30. MRS. J. O. JOHNSTON.

FAMILY OF U. L. HARLEY CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

In observance of his fifty-second birthday, the family of U. L. Harley celebrated with an outdoor dinner at his home Sunday. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. ## ENROUTE TO CALIFORNIA

Mrs. T. C. Purvis has joined her daughter, Mrs. Jack Awtry, in Charlotte, N. C., and they are enroute to Los Angeles, Calif., for a visit with Mrs. L. R. Nicholas and Mrs. Jerry Seeger.

LITTLE DAVIE FRANKLIN THREE YEARS OLD

Little Davie Franklin was a delightful host at a party in honor of his third birthday Monday afternoon. The little folks who came were Willette and Bonnie Woodcock, Claire and Nancy Sack, Joe Brannen, Mary Jane Averitt, Laurel Tate Lanier, Al DeLoach, Pete Johnston, Lehman and Robert Franklin, Billy Adams, Alice Amason, Arthur Howard, Cynthia Johnson, Patricia Redding, Anne and Al McDougald and Linda Pound. Jane Strauss helped with the entertainment, and punch, ice cream and cookies and peppermint bonbons were enjoyed.

Just go on laying. And there is no wonder cats and dogs have come in and taken possession of the chicken yard. We never saw an incubator fly into a spasm in defense of its young when a cat or a dog or a hawk came prowling. What we need is more vigor on the part of the hens. ## MISS GLADYS THAYER BECOMES BRIDE OF HENRY MCCOY JOHNSON

Before an altar banked with palms and ferns which formed a background for a lovely arrangement of white gladioli, Queen-Anne's lace, white dahlias and numerous cathedral tapers, the marriage of Miss Gladys Amelia Thayer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer, to Rev. Henry McCoy Johnson, of Ludowick, took place Thursday evening, June 17, at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church in Statesboro.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. E. L. Barnes, organist, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Eugene Boswell, who sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" and "Because." Preceding the ceremony the organist played "Evening Star," "To a Wild Rose," "Clair de Lune," and used "Liebestraum" during the ceremony.

Serving as ushers were C. R. Weeks, of Americus, and Corona, California; P. M. Thompson, Jr., of Augusta, and the bride's brothers, John M. Thayer, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and Yeoman James E. Thayer, of Miami, Fla.

To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the ushers preceded the bride and maid of honor and formed a semi-circle background before the altar.

The maid of honor, Mrs. John M. Thayer, Jr., the bride's only attendant, was lovely in a dress of pink mousseline de soie made with a sweetheart neckline, long shirred bodice and flared skirt edged with a ruffle of the same material, and carried an arm bouquet of Brachfeld roses tied with a tulle ribbon.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a dress of heavy white satin made on princess lines and fashioned with a long train. The bodice which featured a sweetheart neckline, embroidered with sea pearls, was fastened down the back with tiny satin covered buttons. Her two-tiered veil of illusion, made finger tip, was held to her hair by a coronet of pearls and she carried at satin covered prayer book, topped with deep purple throat orchids showered with a stephanotis. The bride was met at the foot of the altar by the bridegroom and Frank James Funk, of Atlanta, who attended the groom as best man.

At the foot of the altar the bride and groom plighted their troth and then proceeded up the steps of the altar, where the Rev. Frank Walls, of Hinesville, assisted by Dr. Rufus Hodges, performed the ceremony. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom knelt on a white satin prayer bench during the prayer of blessing.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Thayer honored the bridal couple with an informal reception at their home on Grady street. The bridal table was centered with an arrangement of shasta daisies, feverfew and white gladioli. Sandwiches and an ice cream were served the out-of-town guests, relatives and a few close friends.

Mrs. Thayer chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of rose colored chiffon and lace and wore a shoulder corsage of rose tulle gladioli. Mrs. Johnson, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black lace and a corsage of white gladioli.

Mrs. Eugene Boswell wore a dress of seafoam blue and wore a corsage of carnations.

Mrs. E. L. Barnes was gowned in seafoam blue and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. James Thayer, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a dress of white pique and Irish lace, and a corsage of red carnations completed her attire.

Later in the evening the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Miami. The bride wore for traveling a two-piece suit of powder blue with navy accessories and a corsage of orchids.

After June twenty-fifth they will be at home to their friends in Ludowick, where Rev. Johnson is pastor of the Methodist church. Rev. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Eva Howell Johnson, of Atlanta, and the late Rev. James Wilson Johnson.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer Jr., Washington, D. C.; Yeoman and Mrs. James E. Thayer, Miami, Fla.; Mrs. George Shouts, Mrs. R. C. Mobley, Mrs. T. Cleveland Tillman, Mrs. C. R. Weeks and Mrs. Dorothy Martin, of Americus; C. R. Weeks, Cornelia, California; Mr. and Mrs. William Hall and Mrs. Annie Weeks, Savannah; A. M. Thayer, Jacksonville; Bob Darby, Jacksonville; Charlie Joe Matthews, New York; R. B. Carr Jr., Miss Mary Daniels, Mr. Joe D. Powers, Mrs. L. W. Warren Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Philip Long, Rev. and Mrs. William Kitchens Jr., all of Ludowick, and Mrs. J. Dixon Wadsworth, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Groover, of New York, have been visiting during the week with his aunt, Mrs. Eva Stapleton, and other relatives here. Mr. Groover has been in the navy for the past three years at Floyd Bennett Field Air Base.

Between Us

The town is literally swamped with army wives looking for place to live with all the soldiers moving into town, and the different civic clubs are helping these ladies get located. The organizations are appealing to everyone in town who has a room to rent or an apartment, to call Mrs. J. B. Averitt, at phone 103, who will get in touch with those desiring to find rooms. By the way, we are still wondering what happened to the black-out Monday night? So far the "all clear" signal has not sounded, and we guess that makes us still in a complete blackout. That only shows our town how little prepared we are should we have an actual raid. We are promised many more of these in the next few weeks, however, and in the meantime we should be expected to hang the blackout curtains, etc.—Even though it's been many years since Nan Oliff Russell has lived here, we like to keep up with what our townspeople are doing, and we were interested to know she has just recently changed one of our big warship up in New Jersey. Quite a few of the pictures were made of her at the time, and even though many years have passed since she lived here she is still as lovely as ever. Nan has one son in the air corps and another who will soon be in the navy. She is in the service. She and Bob live in New York, but until the war spent quite a bit of time at their place in North Carolina.—To do our very best to help our town, we are going to start a long-distance call that he had gotten a long while ago and was waiting in vain to get it. The call is for the very unusual distinction of having both a father-in-law and mother-in-law who practice law together in Atlanta.—A few of the teachers are idle this summer. Up until this year when vacation came it meant travel to some place or other, but this year they had to work. Julia Miller, who has been employed in office work since she was a child, is planning to stop here for a few weeks. Quite a few are doing work in some of our stores, and Marie and Crook Smith are doing their hand at welding at the shipyards.—The crowd grew so big that they had to get out of the school, and the town has taken on its old routine again.—Betty Smith is wearing such a pretty diamond, and surely no bride has ever been prettier or finer than Betty. She is to have a big wedding this summer, and with three pretty sisters it wouldn't be hard for her to get up a wedding party right in her own home.—Gladya and McCoy Wilson are off to Miami for a honeymoon, and we wonder if they have been with Dot and Wayne Culbreth some? Dot had the thrill of flying back to Miami from Savannah on her honeymoon. It seems Wayne was only given a week end from officers' training school, and it took most of that time to get her and have the wedding, so to get back to school on time they had to fly. It was rather unusual that the college annual, from Teachers College came out a few days before Dot married, and in it was a full-page picture of her being voted the prettiest girl at P. C. Exeter. Lee Barnes, who is studying at the University of Georgia this summer, was voted one of the prettiest girls in the state last week. We would wonder if it was to keep that school boy complexion or ward off a stroke in almost unbearable heat. He and a crowd of young boys are off to camp Sunday for several weeks, and when he comes back I imagine the sun will have given him enough tan to leave the umbrella at home.—Will see you

AROUND TOWN.

PARTIES FOR THAYER-JOHNSON BRIDAL GROUP

The marriage of Miss Gladys Thayer and James McCoy Johnson Thursday evening brought to a close a series of pre-nuptial parties which have been outstanding on the week's social calendar. Numbered among these was the luncheon given Thursday by Mrs. F. W. Darby and Mrs. W. B. Knight for the ladies of the wedding party at the Knight home. The meal, which was served buffet style, included chicken salad on lettuce leaf, creamed asparagus, fancy sandwiches, rolls, iced tea, ice cream and cake. The beautifully appointed table was overlaid with a blue cloth and centered with an arrangement of shasta daisies. Among those present were Miss Thayer, Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. J. Dixon Wadsworth, Mrs. John M. Thayer Jr., Mrs. Jimmie Thayer, Miss Dorothy Martin, Miss Mary Daniel, Mrs. T. C. Timman, Mrs. C. R. Weeks, Mrs. M. Thompson, Mrs. Eugene Boswell, Miss Mary Sue Akins and Mrs. Julian Hodges.

Following the rehearsal Wednesday evening Mrs. E. L. Barnes entertained with a dinner honoring the bridal party. The central decoration in the dining room was the three-tiered wedding cake which was used as the centerpiece for the table. Quantities of shasta daisies and feverfew were used in carrying out the color scheme of green and white. Miss Sophie Johnson and Miss Marie Wood assisted the hostess in serving chicken salad sandwiches, fancy sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The outstanding feature of the occasion was the cutting of the wedding cake which had the traditional souvenirs in its. Those present were Miss Thayer, Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. F. James Funk, Mrs. J. Dixon Wadsworth, Mrs. John Thayer Jr., Mrs. Jimmie Thayer, Mrs. Dorothy Martin, Miss Mary Daniel, Mrs. T. C. Timman, Mrs. C. R. Weeks, Mrs. M.
